WEDNESDAY, APRIL 9, 1913. LOCAL AND GENERAL.

The Queen Street drapers are showing furs and winter clothing. Though the clear warm days continue, yet at night it draws near to the frost mark.

Mr Barton, the travelling secretary of the Presbyterian Bible Class Union, is arriving in Warkworth tonight. He will be present at St. Columba's class tomorrow night, going on to Leigh for Friday night.

The farewell to Mr and Mrs J. W. Darroch of Whangateau, is to be held in the Whangateau hall tomorrow evening (Thursday).

The Wayby folk have decided to inaugurate a system of telephones. We are glad to hear it.

Is it a joke? (asks the "Taranaki Herald"). The "Sphere" (London) which is recognised as one of the leading illustrated papers in the world, in its February issue, publishes a photograph of Mount Egmont showing the use of motor-cars and cycles in the foreground. In black type under the photo is the following: "Mount Egmont, the ascent of which has just been made for the first time." And in another paragraph: "Dr Ernest Dieffenbeck, a celebrated naturalist, has recently succeeded in reaching the summit of Mount Egmont, with a whaler named Heberly. They were abandoned by their companions when 1500 ft from the top, and continued the ascent together." Dr Dieffenbeck has been dead these many years. He ascended Mount Egmont in December, 1829. Heberly, who was employed by Captain Peter Williams at his whaling station on the West Coast of the South Island, away back in 1829 has also been dead for a considerable number of years. Neither of them ever dreamed of the Egmont hostel and their recent ascent of the mountain was about 70 years ago.

Hockey Players will get in the way of each other's sticks, and then a bruise more or less serious follows. The best way to get rid of the bruise is to use NAZOL OINTMENT. It eases the pain and reduces the swelling.

For Children's hacking cough at night, Woods' Great Peppermint Cure, 15d, 2s 6d.

A straight tip! If you feel a thickening of the throat with hoarseness coming on, take a few drops of "NAZOL" on toast sugar every hour. Allow the sugar to dissolve very slowly in the mouth by placing it between the cheek and gums. This is a tip worth knowing.

Sufferers from Bronchitis have secured prompt and permanent relief by using "NAZOL" when other remedies have failed.

It is painful to hear your little one barking with a hard cough at night. A few drops of "NAZOL" sprinkled on the nightdress just below the neck, and repeated two or three times during the night will give wonderful relief and calm sleep to the little one.

Tightness of the Chest, difficulty in breathing, accumulation of phlegm—all the result of a cold or chill—may be relieved by "NAZOL." It is a household remedy in thousands of homes.

Millions of eggs have been preserved in SHARLAND'S MOA BRAND EGG PRESERVATIVE. It is the standard preparation in New Zealand. Try it yourself, this year.

Chilblains, Chapped Hands, and Rough Skin are very tormenting and irritating. If you want relief, then use NAZOL OINTMENT. It softens the skin, takes away the irritation, soothes, heals and cures.

Chapped Hands are easily cured if you use NAZOL OINTMENT. It possesses healing and soothing properties.

Farewell to the Rev P. R. and Mrs Paris.

The Warkworth Methodist Church was full on Thursday last, for the quarterly social and farewell to Mr and Mrs Paris. Representatives were present from Pakiri, Port Albert, as well as from the regions nearer to hand. One lady walked from Mullet Point. Mr H. R. French presided. The Rev. Mr Strand spoke of the fate of Methodist ministers, which required the periodic plucking up the roots of home life for a transplanting elsewhere. The visits of Mr Paris to Port Albert had been heartily appreciated and they regretted the approaching severance and wished both Mr and Mrs Paris God-speed. Personally he could say Mr Paris had been more than a brother to him. The Rev. Oscar Blundell related the story that the lions did not molest Daniel because he was made up of backbone and grit. He found that Mr Paris was built on the same lines. Their intercourse had been that of colleagues. They had met in the library of the Parsonage, and the library of the Manse, and their converse had been of the deep things of God, of the work, and of the people. Mr Blundell also bore testimony to the labours of Mrs Paris and he trusted that the tonic qualities of Te Aroha would give her better health and that the blessing of God would be with them both. Mr Nathaniel Wilson bore testimony to the pulpit abilities as well as the general worth of their departing minister. The children's addresses had been a marked feature of the Sunday morning services, and as one of the seniors he had enjoyed them quite as much as any of the juniors. Mr Sturch spoke of the helpful character of the discourses. He had never gone empty away. Mr T. H. Wilson deprecated the constant moving of Methodist ministers. The Chairman related a candid report of the speaking abilities of the front rankers in the British Home of Commons. Parsons could hold their own with politicians and Mr Paris had the literary gift. Instead of any diminution in the high quality of his sermons the last two were as good, if not better, than any before. They spoke of diligent study, and careful preparation. Of itself culture availed nothing. Henry Ward Beecher, perhaps the most eloquent of eloquent Americans, described as the greatest utterances of all, the broken sentences which swept from the heart of a God-touched man. Words were but empty air, if a man failed to bear his witness to truth and right. Macaulay was the greater man because he was willing to sacrifice his place in government so as to urge an earlier ending to the slave trade. Gladstone handed in his resignation to Sir Robert Peel rather than be a party to forcing opium on China. But for like inspiration, the millions of pounds worth of British opium now lying at the door of China would be swept into that country by British cannon. That inspiration was the desire to stand by the right at whatever cost. Though he did not accept everything that Mr Paris had said, Mr Paris had stood true in the time of crises, and had proved himself not only valiant for the right, but courteous and vital. It was no desire of the Mahurangi circuit, that they were saying goodbye, for a unanimous invitation had been extended to Mr Paris to remain a fourth year. In reply Mr Paris said the kind things spoken humiliated him, when he realised how much more could have been done. The work of pastor was an intimate one. Some he had married, their children he had baptised, their troubles had been confided to him, and he had buried their dead. It was true he had been invited to remain, but he was leaving to fill a promise to a dead man. By one of the last requests of the late Rev. A. Reed, he was going to take up the work at Te Aroha, from which his friend had been removed by death. He had tried to make it easier for man to do right. He had been denounced from one platform as one who was not fit to be in the ministry, as a peculiarly bad type of a socialist, yet he had tried to set forth the incomparable Christ. Mr Blundell and he had not alone conferred together, they had prayed together for the advancement of Christ's kingdom and the betterment of men. For the kindness received from all quarters to Mrs Paris and himself he expressed their grateful thanks. Mr Sims would soon arrive, he too was a young man. Probably as a young man his point of view would differ less from his, than his did from the older man who preceded him. He would ask them to take their new minister to their hearts as they had taken him.

Interspersed between the speeches, a pleasing musical programme was given. Songs were rendered by Mrs Ramsay, Messrs A. D. Grant, J. M. Brodie, H. Owens, H. I. Phillips and Hume. Messrs Stringer and Hume gave an appreciated cornet and euphonium duet, and Mr K. Glass Glass contributed an organ selection. After the singing of the hymn, "God be with you till we meet again," supper was supplied.

At Matakana on Friday evening a representative audience gathered in the hall to bid farewell to Mr Paris. The Rev. O. Blundell presided. The programme was thoroughly enjoyable. Mr Blundell testified to his regret of the coming departure of a fellow worker.

Mr Richards stated that though he was a member of another communion, he always appreciated the visits of their guest, and on behalf of the Matakana residents he wished him God speed. Mr E. Roke joined in the farewell greetings. He was a member of the Salvation Army but the gospel preached by Mr Paris made them one in Christ Jesus. Mrs Lavock contributed several songs. Her singing of "On the Banks of Allen Water" was illustrated by tableaux. So also was the singing of the part song "Where are you going my pretty maid" by Mr and the Misses Richards. Mrs Mathews recited "The Fireman's Wedding" and also gave an exhibition of Indian club swinging. In responding to the expressions of good will, Mr Paris thought it was probably unique for a district to farewell a minister who was of another denomination to the residents. He heartily thanked them for their kindness. Supper was partaken of.

On Sunday morning and evening large congregations were present at the Methodist Church to hear the final discourses of Mr Paris.

On Tuesday evening some half dozen representatives of the Loyal Pioneer Lodge of Oddfellows waited on Mr Paris at the Parsonage. The worthy Grand, Bro G. Craig, the Noble Grand Bro S. D. McPherson, and the Past Grand Bro R. N. Warin expressed the good wish of the brotherhood towards their departing brother and asked him to accept a silver mounted umbrella as a mark of the appreciation for the interest Mr Paris had taken in the lodge and a memento of the esteem in which he was held. In returning thanks Mr Paris said he took every opportunity of recommending young men to join a friendly society.

Mr and Mrs Paris are leaving by coach and train tomorrow morning.

Warkworth Town Board.

A meeting of the Town Board was held in the Council Chambers, on Monday evening. There were present Mr N. Wilson chairman, Messrs B. H. McKinney, T. Walker, A. Warin and T. Williams.

PUBLIC POUND. The poundkeeper, Mr W. Wilson, waited on the Board respecting the sale of broken down horses in the pound, where the sum realised was insufficient to pay charges. In one case where the ownership of the animal was disputed, the Board gave instructions to join the two parties as defendants and take proceedings for recovery. As the Impounding Act provides that any surplus over expenses becomes the property of the local authority if unclaimed, it was agreed to pay the keeper for any shortage in sustentation charges and out of pocket expenses.

WORKS. The Board was advised that the Neville street contract had been passed subject to the filling of a hole or two. It was decided to employ carters at 30s per day to cart furnace ash for footpaths, and Leigh stone for roads. An application to provide a crossing for houses occupied by Messrs Buckton and Cadman was dismissed. Mr Walker said that as the footpaths made by the applicants had been removed in the formation of Neville street, it was only fair to replace them. Other members took the view that other ratepayers had to wait for improvements and that the Board was limited in finance, further work in Neville street would have to wait.

PROPOSED LIBRARY. Mr De Montalk, forwarded plans of front elevation of the proposed library in four different designs. The side nearest the hall would have four windows. The other side would be a solid wall in the expectation of future extension. The estimate for the two rooms 14 by 26 and 16 by 20, in either concrete or Clark's blocks was £250 complete. Mr Walker said he proposed of two stories facade in front of the Town Hall wouldn't cost any more. The cost was generally in excess of the estimate. Mr McKinney said if so, Mr Walker's proposal would mean double excess. The chairman said it couldn't be done, nor had the Board the power to do it. It was decided to agree on a facade after the style of the Masonic Hall, but before instructing the architect to proceed further it was decided to secure the money. Mr Williams moved "That steps be taken by advertisement to raise £200 for building the library at 5 per cent in debentures of £10 each. The currency to be 20 years, reserving to the Board the right to repay after 10 years" seconded by Mr McKinney and carried.

NORTH AUCKLAND COURT. A letter was received from Mr E. C. Purdie secretary of the North Auckland Court at the approaching exhibition, asking for the Board's assistance. The chairman thought the proposal afforded a great opportunity for the North. Mr Williams asked how they could manage to give with finance so low. The Chairman raised the question of the legal right to give. The treasurer stated an assurance had been given that an empowering act would be passed next session. In regard to finance, the chairman said the Board would always have more work to do than money to do it with. He moved "That the Board vote £10 to the Court, to be paid in four months time, and that the Town district be canvassed for subscriptions," seconded by Mr Warin and carried.

Accounts amounting to £231 6s 11d were authorised for payment.
