

WEDDING BELLS.

GRAVATT—WYTAT.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in the Leigh Church on Tuesday, 10th inst., under a floral bell of flowers and greenery by Rev. C. Adenbrooke when Trevor, second son of Mr and Mrs C. E. Gravatt, of Leigh, was married to Jessie, only daughter of Mr and Mrs J. C. Wyatt, also of Leigh. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked very sweet in a dainty frock of white crepe-de-chene. She wore the usual veil and orange blossoms, and carried a beautiful bouquet of white asters and asparagus fern, and was attended as bridesmaid by Miss Muriel Gravatt, sister of the bridegroom, who looked very charming dressed in heliotrope crepe-de-chene, carrying a very pretty bouquet of heliotrope asters and ferns. The bride was also attended by her two little nephews as pages in white suits. The best man was Mr T. H. Walden, of Whangateau. The bridal march was played as the bridal party entered the church, and the wedding march as they left. The guests were entertained by the bride's parents at their residence, "Mount Pleasant," after the ceremony.

BUCHAN—MOORE.

A quiet but pretty wedding of much local interest was celebrated recently at the Methodist Church, Mangere, by the Rev. Thornley, when Miss E. A. Holly Moore, third daughter of Mr and Mrs J. W. Moore, of Mullet Point, was married to Mr George G. Buchan, eldest son of Mr and Mrs G. Buchan, of Herne Bay, Auckland. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a pretty frock of ivory crepe-de-chene trimmed with little roses of same and beads. A hand-embroidered veil kept in place by a wreath of orange blossom, and a beautiful shower bouquet of white flowers with touch of lilac completed the effect. She also wore a gold arm-let, the bridegroom's present. She was attended by her sister Miss Melya Moore, as bridesmaid, who wore apricot crepe-de-chene and white hat, trimmed with flowers and ribbon to tone, and carried a bouquet of lilac flowers and maidenhair fern. The bridegroom was supported by Mr Wilfrid Wedding as best man. Miss B. Thorne, a friend of the bride, presided at the organ. After the ceremony they adjourned to the residence of the bride's sister Mrs A. Westney, Westney-road, where the breakfast was held, Mrs Westney receiving her guests in a frock of powder blue crepe-de-chene. Mrs Moore, mother of the bride, and Mrs Buchan, mother of the bridegroom, both wore dresses of brown crepe-de-chene and hats to tone.

After the usual toasts had been honoured the happy couple left by motor, en route for the Waikato, the bride wearing a nigger-brown embossed marocain frock, with henna facings and brown lace hat to match.

Many papers record all the world's news: only one chronicles your district affairs. You need that one, for it is unsatisfactory to be dependant upon gossip—or an occasional read of your neighbor's paper—for information as to stock sales, what the local governing bodies are doing, and the hundred and one matters of local interest that are printed from time to time. On a year's subscription it costs only twopence halfpenny a week to be so provided: This is what it pans out. Postage is free, and so is delivery.
