High Herd Production.

A herd of 27 mixed dairy cows, owned by Mr. F. H. Bell, Waiwhiu, Bay of Plenty, gave a fine return last season. They produced 11,186 lb. of butterfat, an average of 414 lb. each. Twenty-two of the cows gave an average of 479.6 lb. of fat in 320 days, while the best cow gave 566.89 lb. of fat in 310 days. The cows appeared to be of very ordinary quality of mixed breeds, and cost their owner less than £10 each three years ago. The cows were run on 54 acres of river flats, most of which was in pasture. As supplementary feed they were fed on eight acres of turnips, carrots, mangels, and chow moultrie.

The land was of excellent quality and the pasture was top-dressed with 2½ cwt. of superphosphate annually. Mr. Bell attributed the performance of the cows to the fact that they were well fed and well looked after.

The clipping reproduced above was taken from the "New Zealand Herald" of Friday, August 7th, 1925.

Note that the cows were of "very ordinary quality"; that they cost their owner less than £10 each; that the land was top-dressed with 2½ cwt. of Superphosphate annually, and that the farmer attributed the performance of the cows to the fact that they were "well fed."

This is yet another tribute to the enormous value of Superphosphate as a fertiliser. No other fertiliser can compare with Superphosphate from the aspects of plant-food value, immediate availability, lasting qualities or economy.

Many papers record all the world's news: only one chronicles your district affairs. You need that one, for it is unsatisfactory to be dependant upon gossip—or an occasional read of your neighbor's paper—for information as to stock sales, what the local governing bodies are doing, and the hundred and one matters of local interest that are printed from time to time. On a year's subscription it costs only twopence halfpenny a week to be so provided: This is what it pans out. Postage is free, and so is delivery.
